EDITOR'S MESSAGE

This month, we dove deep into the world of emotions! We learned how to identify a wide range of feelings, understand what triggers them, and express our emotions in healthy and positive ways. Through creative activities, we explored the importance of emotions in our daily lives and how it will help us to better connect with others.

We're excited to share all the great moments of this month with you, and we hope you enjoy reading them!

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

Hi I am Zichen and my favorite colour is red.

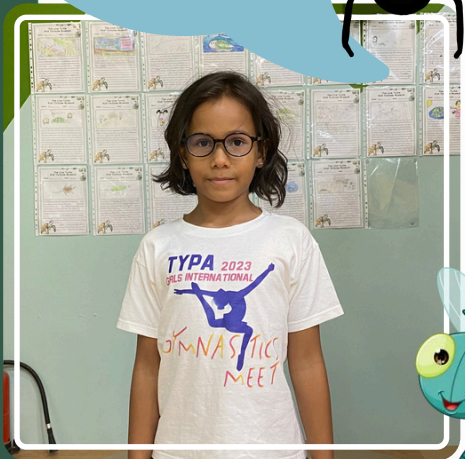

I am Jude. In school, I'm the captain of bowling.

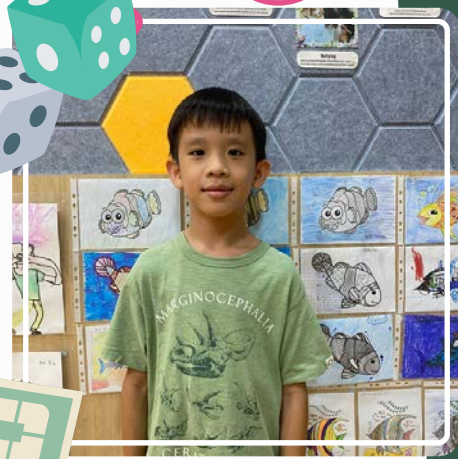

Hello I'm Kai Xin. I like Cinnamoroll.

Hi I'm Mia and I like insects.

Hi I am Alvin. I am good at board games.

ACTIVITIES

STEM CHALLENGE STRESS BALL

We use a balloon and stuffed it with clay, then we blow the balloon to make it into a stress ball.

This is fun and I can now reduce my stress.

ACTIVITIES

COOKERY PIZZA BREAD

It's delicious!

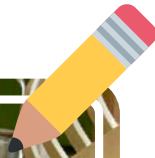

This time, we made pizza bread using bread, cheese, sausages, and pineapple. We had to use the ingredients to create a facial expression.

ACTIVITIES

ART & CRAFT

PAPER SQUISHIES

We used markers, tape, and fluff. First, we drew pictures on paper with pencil, coloured them with markers, and outlined with a black marker. Then we taped the paper, folded it, cut out the drawing, and taped the two pieces together, leaving a small gap. We filled it with fluff and sealed the gap with tape.

This looks very nice!

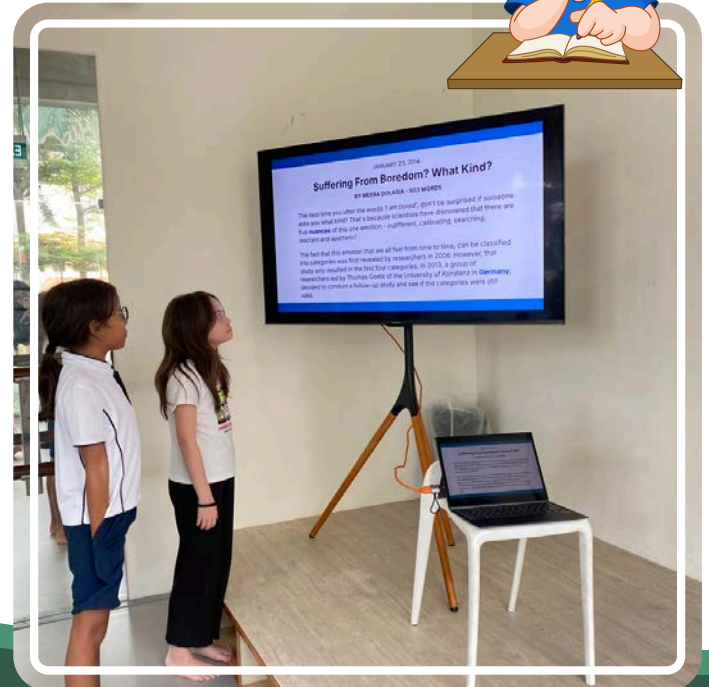

ACTIVITIES

DOCUMENTARY

EXPLORING BOREDOM

We learned about five types of boredom: indifferent, calibrating, searching, reactant, and apathetic. We also learned how to identify and differentiate them, understand their impact on emotions and behavior, and explore strategies to manage them.
